So COP26 Ended. What Does That Mean for Evanston?

The recent climate conference in Glasgow was a crucial milestone for climate action. Fortunately for us, two Evanstonians attended and can share their insights. CGE Board President, Rachel Rosner and Youth Board Member, Lily Aaron, were part of a delegation with It's Our Future, a youth-driven climate justice program of Seven Generations Ahead. They joined tens of thousands of people, including youth activists, indigenous leaders, and world leaders who understand the depth, breadth and urgency of this crisis. Lily's big takeaway: our youth will ultimately solve this crisis by making sure that those most impacted, BIPOC, women and marginalized communities have a seat at the table. You can hear her talk about it on Chicago Tonight! and as part of this "Youth Voices: COP26 & Beyond" a youth-led livestream event produced in partnership with One Earth Collective. If you know a high school student who might want to get involved in local climate action, have them contact iof@sevengenerationsahead.org on Instagram @iofyouth.
